

5 Best Resorts to Spend a Multi-Generational Vacation

 JUNE 20, 2014 BY ERIN GIFFORD  0 COMMENTS

Multi-generational vacations are more popular than ever. Last summer, we spent three weeks in Ireland with my in-laws as part of a home exchange. It was great that my kids could spend more time with their grandparents and it was helpful to have an extra set of hands (and two extra drivers) during our vacation. If you're thinking about a multi-generational vacation, here are five of the best resorts to stay:

2. Grand Residences Riviera Cancun. Look for three and four bedroom ocean view and beach front suites at the Grand Residences Riviera Cancun. Perfect for families, each residence is divided up into individual suites with independent entrances. Little ones will love making piñatas and going on treasure hunts at the Kids Club, while the whole family can enjoy “life-changing activities,” such as Mexican cooking classes, Mayan studies, nature programs and volunteer opportunities in Puerto Morelos.

<http://kidventurous.com/2014/06/5-best-resorts-to-spend-a-multi-generational-vacation/>